Sharon Kennet, as part of the EU project Hope II, gave a deeply moving and positive speech at a round table event in Athens on 31 March. Although the event focused on the atrocities of war, the speech emphasised practical and positive solutions for the future, and through humour and personal story telling engaged the audience in a unique way. The event was attended by ministers, journalists, unionists and committee members, from 9 different EU member states.

The speech mentioned the incredible work that Cfor does, emphasised education in the most extensive sense of the word, and the need for increased global partnerships as extremely effective ways of creating and sustaining large-scale impact.
